

MAGDALEN HOME INMATES IN RIOT; SIXTEEN ARRESTED

Girls Smash Windows and Break Furniture in Wild Hour of Disorder.

CAN ESCAPE HALF TERM.

Superintendent Sees Plot to Get Workhouse Sentence of Only Six Months.

Inmates of the Magdalen Home at Inwood broke from restraint at 8 o'clock last night and ran screaming through the buildings, breaking windows and wrecking furniture. Efforts to quell them were futile, and finally the assistant superintendent, Miss Janet Macconachie, appealed for aid to the police.

Detective Hyman led reserves from the St. Nicholas avenue station to the home. By the time they arrived some semblance of order had been restored, perhaps because the windows that might be broken remained within easy reach.

Sixteen girls, nine white and seven colored, submitted quietly to arrest. They were taken to the station house and thence later to the Women's Night Court. There they were held for examination to-morrow.

When the police announced their readiness to take the rest of the prisoners, she said:

"Not at all; I'll take care of these girls myself."

Whereupon the Superintendent searched the six off to the disciplinary quarters. Later she explained why. "Until last September," she told reporters, "it was possible for a girl sent to the Home to secure her release on parole at the end of six months if her behavior had been good. Experience had shown us that a great majority of the girls released after so short a time went back to their old lives, so the period of good behavior necessary before release was increased to one year."

"Some of the girls protested vigorously against this, and during the fall there was an outbreak that was quickly quelled without much damage having been done. Since that time the complaint has continued, until some worked out a plan for getting the six months' advantage again."

"The plan was very simple. It involved nothing more than such disorder that the police would have to be called in, arrests made and arrangements in the Women's Night Court. No more serious charge would be laid than disorderly conduct, and the maximum penalty for that would be six months in the Workhouse. At the end of the sentence the girl would be free, and free long before she could have hoped to be released from here. If with the authorities would understand what is behind this, if they did understand and took the action they should take in such cases they would punish the offenders not by sending them to the Workhouse but to the Bedford Reformatory, where they would have to spend the full period of three years."

Mrs. Abel was formerly connected with the Bedford Reformatory.

BOMB STARTS BIG FIRE.

Several Persons Have Narrow Escape From Death.

DOVER, N. J., July 20.—Fire started, apparently, by a chemical bomb destroyed the ice cream and confectionary store of Patsie Mazzario to-day. His loss is $5,000. That of John W. Roberts, who owned the building, is about $12,000. Roberts lives on the floor over the store, hearing with Mrs. Mary Craig. At 3:35 this morning they heard a voice ask: "Are you ready?" "Yes; let her go." Almost at once there was an explosion in the store and a burst of flame. They had difficulty getting out, so rapid was the spread of the fire.
